OPERATION

the definitive prayer guide to every nation

As a wealthy, high-tech, industrial society and the second largest country in the world, Canada boasts a market-oriented economic structure and an affluent standard of living. Canada's diverse terrain - mountains, forests and wilderness, prairie grasslands, and arctic tundra - provide copious natural resources of water and minerals, contributing to the nation's current wealth and pointing to an even stronger economic future. Canadians can best be described as a montage of indigenous people, the First Nations and the Inuit, and immigrant citizens primarily from Europe, but also from China, South Asia, and the Middle East.

The strong legacy of Christianity has been influenced and shaped by Christian faith across all major political parties.

For the most part, Canada enjoys a peaceful political environment. The greatest conflict and threat to national unity, however, is the division between the Francophone Quebec and the other Anglophone provinces. The calls for Quebec's secession from Canada have diminished of late, but they are never far from re-emerging. Much of Canada's economic success stems from a 1994 free trade agreement (NAFTA) with the United States and Mexico. The country's petroleum reserves rank third behind those of Saudi Arabia and Venezuela.

The Canadian constitution guarantees the freedom of religion, but secularization and pluralization have affected the relationship between society and religion, causing a lengthy, continuous decline of Christianity. Catholicism is the principal religious influence in the country and is increasing due to an influx of Catholic immigrants. As the Church struggles to remain relevant, moral, and dynamic in Canadian society, there has been a poignant drop in the influence of the Gospel. Mobilization is needed to bring together the diverse Christian population to reach a secular Canada that fears terms like "born-again" and "evangelical." Canada's indigenous peoples need spiritual growth and healing from years of abuse. Christian missionary vision must be focused on immigrants who live in sizable un-evangelized communities. May the people of Canada feel a deep need of the Savior despite the perceived safety their wealth and political freedom provide.

JOSHUA PROJECT

Although there may be a few believers or even a few churches, they are a people group among which there is no indigenous community of believing Christians with adequate numbers and resources to evangelize their own people group.

A total of 50 People Groups are Unreached –
1 630 000 people who have limited or NO access to the Gospel.

PRAY FOR MISSIONS

- Pray for increased involvement by churches and individuals in the evangelization of the unreached around the world.
- Pray for a passion to reach out to these peoples whom God has placed on the doorsteps of evangelical congregations.
- Missionary concern from within the many growing, ethnic-minority churches. Such a vision is vital for Canada and could be strategic for the evangelization of their lands of origin.
- Pray for the unifying and strategic work of the Task Force for Global Mission of the Evangelical Fellowship of Canada.
- Pray also for Missionfest, a mobilizing conference held in several cities every year to raise awareness and stimulate missions vision.

At the National House of Prayer, we desire to help mobilize informed and sustained prayer for all government leaders and the decisions they make. We seek to help build a bridge between our government leaders and caring Christians from across Canada. Our hope is that through these meaningful relationships, God would influence these leaders with a perspective of righteousness that would bless them as they serve our nation.
